

A Generation of Heroes

Lately, the world seems broken.
Power held in the wrong hands,
These lies and corruption
Have no tolerance for safety.

You can feel it everywhere.
Heads down,
Walking fast.
The sense of trust is lost in us.

News headlines flash
"Twenty more dead"
Stories of disaster,
But we are only numb.

We beg for help,
Knowing it might be us next,

But no one comes to save us,
As we watch the death toll rise.

Our hope is fading,
But determination carries on.

It is time for us to take action,
Time to fix what they will not.

Our generation of heroes
Rises from the chaos.

We will fix the unfixable.
Best you be afraid.